

PAHSCI Website Policy Page

The PAHSCI website was designed to provide visitors a forum for networking, learning, and contributing to the knowledge base about effective instructional practices. The PAHSCI website aims to maintain a community that encourages learning and practice. The following policies and guidelines have been designed to provide an environment of respect for our visitors.

- The PAHSCI website is a resource that provides visitors learning opportunities on instructional coaching, PAHSCI, and education reform.
- PAHSCI believes that instructional coaching is a promising strategy to improve student achievement and build teacher capacity. With this in mind, PAHSCI is a politically neutral website.
- PAHSCI maintains a code of conduct that values collegial respect when reflecting and discussing issues and topics. Submissions that do not reflect this code will not be posted. New blogs and comments on existing blogs will undergo a review process to ensure adherence to guidelines.
- Information or data from other sources posted on the PAHSCI website must be verifiable and must abide by copyright laws. Be sure to cite resources!
